

JOE LEE DAVIS WINS ESSAY PRIZE

Lexington Boy, Son of Former Local Newspaper Man, Takes High Honors

Many friends and relatives here are greatly interested in the success of Joe Lee Davis, of Lexington in winning the essay writing contest for the high schools of the state as announced at Lexington Friday night.

Young Davis is a son of R. Lee Davis, a former Richmond newspaper man, now on the Lexington Leader. The lad is a nephew of Mrs. L. E. Lane, of this city, and Mrs. George Noland. The Associated Press gives the following about the success of this brilliant young man:

Joe Lee Davis, Lexington's boy poet, was announced as the winner of the state essay contest conducted by the University of Kentucky. The result was announced at the close of the state high school debating contest.

Four essays were given honorable mention by the judges. Prof. L. L. Dantzer, head of the Department of English at the University; Prof. E. F. Farquhar, associate professor of English, and Prof. G. W. Whiting, of the Department of English. They were essays on "Suggestions or the Improvement of My Home Town," by Emily Carothers, of Bardonia, and Elizabeth Fleming, of LaSalle Academy, Covington; "Why I Wish to Attend the University of Kentucky," by Mary A. Schmidt, Campbell County High School, Alexandria, Ky., and "James Lane Allen," by Miriam Berry, Margaret Hall, Versailles. The subject of the prize winning essay by young Davis was on James Lane Allen.

The winner of the contest is 15 years old. At the age of eleven he published a volume of poems written during the years between seven and eleven. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Davis, and is a junior in the Senior High School.

Davis, when it was determined that his essay had been awarded the prize, was called to the University, according to the announcement, and asked regarding the subject of his essay. It was found that he had read the Kentucky poet's works time after time and had thoroughly studied them. The winning essay was written without previous preparation and within the two hour limit in the presence of his teacher.

Ninety-five essays from 41 high schools were submitted to the final judges. The subjects from which the students had to choose were "James Lane Allen," "Suggestions for the Improvement of My Home Town," and "Why I Wish to Attend the University of Kentucky." They were chosen as subjects on which the essays would naturally have to be original, it was stated.

LOOKING OVER MR. DAVIS' ELIGIBILITY

Washington, May 7.—Behind closed doors the senate finance committee today heard testimony of David H. Blair of Winston-Salem, N. C., to be commissioner of internal revenue. One senator brought two charges that Blair as a delegate to the Republican convention at Chicago violated the North Carolina primary law in voting for Harding for president, when Johnson had obtained the state primary preference, and also asserted that Blair was the improper person, because his wife's father and other relatives had income tax claims before the treasury aggregating around $1,000,000.

Live Frogs Daily

Neff's Fish and Oyster House have an unique display window this week in the way of miniature pond and fountain from which pour out its crystal waters, upon the grasses which border around the pond. Live frogs weighing from 3 to 5 pounds enjoy floating around in its waters, and eating the flies and other foods placed in the pond for their convenience, and seem to enjoy life to its fullest extent. Mr. Neff invites the children to come down and see this wonderful display.

MADISON COUNTY GIVES $557 TO CHINESE RELIEF

The people of Madison county are responding liberally to the Chinese Famine Fund, according to reports received from Kentucky headquarters at Louisville. Subscriptions received from this county up to the present time total $557. Executive Secretary J. Paul Swain, of Louisville, is very anxious that other subscriptions from this county be rushed to him at once, as the needs of the starving thousands in China were never greater.

Dr. R. L. Telford has called upon his congregation to give a special collection to this relief fund Sunday, May 8, and it is the desire of the Kentucky headquarters that all the churches throughout Madison county will make special offerings during the month of May. The list of contributors in Madison county follows:

YOUNG TOM SMITH HONORED FOR HEROISM

Mr. Thomas Jefferson Smith, of Richmond and Louisville, was honored by the Y. M. C. A. in Louisville last evening. At a later date this young hero may receive a Carnegie medal for having saved the life of Mrs. J. Donagan, of Orlando, Fla., when her car fell over a bridge into the river and this young hero pulled her out. Mr. Smith is the son of the former State Bank Examiner Thomas Jefferson Smith, deceased, who was one of the most popular men that ever lived in the Blue Grass state. Dr. Wm. Arthur Ganfield, of Centre College, was one of the speakers of the occasion last evening.—Danville Advocate.

WACO

Mr. Walter Bush and family of Ravenna, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bush.

Miss Lucy Thorpe, of Irvine, is visiting friends here.

Miss Carolina Broadbent, who is teaching in Clark county, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Broadbent.

Mr. Charles B. Baumstark made a business trip to Irvine Saturday.

Mrs. M. L. McKinney, of Irvine, visited her mother, Mrs. R. K. Moberly, Wednesday and Thursday.

Very little corn has been planted in this section, owing to the rainy weather the past week. Only a third crop of strawberries is reported, but there is a good crop of blackberries.

Mrs. Nathan Sharpe, of Akron, Ohio, who was operated on at the Gibson infirmary last week, is getting along nicely, and was able to be brought to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Broadbent, Wednesday.

Mr. A. T. McKinney, of Red House, visited his aged father the first of the week.

Mr. Everett Ellison has returned to his home in Illinois after a visit to friends here.

Little Eunice Bush, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia, is improving, we are glad to report.

The last of the lyceum course was presented at the school Saturday night by the Aeolian company, which was very interesting.

HAYDN'S CREATION IN MAY FESTIVAL

Dr. Myers Announces Some of Musical Delights of This Year's Annual Event

The big annual Music Festival will take place on Thursday and Friday, May 26 and 27. One of the principal works to be given this year will be Haydn's immortal masterpiece, "The Creation." The first program will be given on the evening of May 26, and will consist of an artists' recital by the soloists and the Cincinnati String Quartet. This will be followed by a cantata entitled, "The Rescue of Will Stutley." The text of which has been arranged from an old English poem of the sixteenth century and the music composed by Dr. Myers, director of the Music Department of the Normal School. This work will be presented by a chorus of children from the training schools supported by the sopranos and altos of the Festival chorus and the orchestra.

On Friday afternoon a matinee will be given by the children of the first four primary grades from the training school, and in the evening, "The Creation" will be given by the full Festival chorus, soloists, and orchestra.

The management has been exceptionally fortunate this year in securing solo artists. Mr. Dar Beddoe is one of the foremost living American tenors. As an interpreter of the great tenor roles of oratorio he stands first in his generation. Millions have heard him sing in forty-one American States, in Canada, in England, Ireland, and Wales. He has appeared repeatedly with every one of the great American symphony orchestras, with the leading choruses of the United States and Canada. He has been the principal soloist in all the important American music festivals. Everywhere he has received the warmest praise of the critics and of the public.

Miss Harriett Beecher Stowe who will sing the soprano part in "The Creation," is a lyric soprano endowed with voice of singular purity and velvety quality. In addition, she possesses the art of virtuosity to a marked degree, that art which enables a singer to place the music before the audience in a manner which evokes a hearty response. Finely gifted not only as a singer of oratorio but of songs, she is especially fitted for the soprano role in Haydn's "The Creation," the style of music being that which displays her voice to its best advantages.

Mr. Robert J. Thuman, who will be heard on both Thursday and Friday evenings, is a young American baritone fully launched upon a brilliant career. He sings with feeling and intelligence. He thinks as well as breathes, in his solos, meeting the dramatic demands of his role with ease. Mr. Thuman recently sang the baritone role in the oratorio of Elijah given by the Oratorio Society of Hamilton, O. Of his singing on that occasion the Hamilton News says:

"Perhaps the quality most needed in delineating the character of the prophet is spirituality. Mr. Thuman in voice and personality suggested this. There is also in Elijah's character a sense of humor, a sublime irony as where he adjoins the worshiper of Baal to call louder—mayhap he is on a journey, etc. This trait, too, as well as Elijah's faith, his heroism and his capacity for suffering, the brilliant young bass achieved most admirably."

Dr. Myers, in working up these

DICK MILLER'S BEAUTIFUL ADDRESS ON "MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME"

Richard W. Miller

In connection with the campaign to raise $100,000 for the purchase and rehabilitation of the "Old Kentucky Home" near Bardonia, many are recalling an address that the late lamented "Dick" Miller of Richmond, made in connection with the unveiling of the statue of Stephen Collins Foster on June 15, 1906. The address was one of the master orations of his brilliant career, which was terminated all too soon, his friends thought, and just when he was on the threshold of still greater honors.

Mr. Miller's tribute to Foster and "The Old Kentucky Home" is especially timely now, and the Daily Register takes pleasure in reproducing it. He spoke as follows:

"The sun shines bright in the Old Kentucky Home," and in the fruitful richness of a radiant June, from every section of the imperial republic, the something gone, but always loved and unforgotten wanderers are gathered home again, it is fitting, that called into being by the generous contributions of the children of the public schools, the little one whose laughter makes home bright, and whose abiding love fills this mortal life with more than mortal beauty, there should be dedicated a stately statue to the memory of the man whose gentle genius caught the spirit of the Commonwealth and gave its noblest sentiment enduring sweetness in the lingering melody of a deathless song.

I have no sort of sympathy with the philosophy of Diogenes which goes up and down the good world, fitting its smoking lantern upon the poor weakness and wretched failure here and there, losing sight of splendid progress and sublime achievement, everywhere bearing witness to man's kinship with heaven. The songs of that immortal, the thoughts which linger to inspire, the deeds whose fragrance abides in benediction are those which speak of courage, of truth, of love, and righteousness, lengthening the horizon of human hope and enlarging all life's limitations.

What a Song Can Do At the first note of the "Marseaise," the Frenchman straightens for the charge. And the solemn cadences of "God Save the King," the Englishman bows to the accumulated reverence of centuries; at the swelling rhythm of the "Star Spangled Banner" the eyes grow misty in the recollection of a patriot's longing for the dawn, and we salute the flag that carries a nation's history and is resplendent with its hopes; "Yankee Doodle" stimulates and "Dixie" stirs to mad-annual music festivals is not only giving the students who come to Eastern State Normal and the people of Richmond and vicinity an opportunity to hear some of the best musical artists right at home, but he is also bringing to the students an opportunity to get the best traditions and the highest aspirations of the noblest genius of the ages as embodied in the great oratorios.

SHERIFF OF JACKSON COUNTY IS WOUNDED

McKee, Ky., May 7. Wm. Baker, sheriff of this county, was shot Thursday, the shooting occurring at Chadwell, about eight miles east of here. Baker was with Albert McIntosh, one of his deputies, when they met John King. It is said that Baker and King had a few words, and that as Baker was dismounting from his horse, King shot him. He was shot with a .32 automatic, copper jacket bullet, the bullet entering the upper lip and ranging downward through his jaw lodged in his neck. McIntosh, it is reported, shot his pistol empty at King as King was preparing to fire, but none of the shots took effect except thru his clothing, and King escaped. The doctors decided not to cut the bullet out at present, but think that the wound will not be fatal.

Bud Morris, who killed his father several days ago, was dismissed after examining trial by County Judge W. F. Johnson. His plea was self-defense and defense of his wife. His father was over 80 years of age.

J. R. Llewellyn is drilling a well for oil on his farm near Estill county.

School closed at McKee Academy last Thursday. Dr. Ingle, of New York City preached the baccalaureate sermon and delivered the commencement address.

The County Board of Education has purchased the building and grounds of the Academy, and expect to have high school and the grades taught in it from now on. McKee Academy has formerly been maintained by the Women's Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church in America.

H. F. Minter is in Berea and Richmond this week.

A. W. Baker was in Berea and Irvine last week.

Miss Isabelle Whitewood has gone on a visit to friends in New Jersey.

Miss Viola Pas, former teacher here, has returned to her home in Holland, Mich. Miss Hattie Verneer, another teacher, has returned to her home in Iowa.

Annual M. E. Conference To Be Held In Somerset

Somerset, Ky., May 7.—The Kentucky Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will convene in Somerset early in September, the committee on the selection of a place for the annual meeting having just decided in favor of Somerset over Winchester, the other contending city for the meeting. Between 300 and 400 ministers and lay delegates will be in attendance at the meeting, which will continue for one week. It is at this conference that the assignments of the Methodist pastors for the various churches throughout the Kentucky conference, circuit takes place.

HUNT FOR ROOMING PLACES IS NOW ON

Eastern Kentucky Normal Needs Additional Rooms for the Summer Term

During the recent Convocation of County Superintendents, a thorough canvass was made to determine the number of students each Superintendent would have present during the Summer School, which opens June 27th. After assembling the data secured the number which will be presented is much larger than the administration of the Normal School anticipated. As a result, the business office is soliciting additional rooming places for students. The major portion of the students during the Summer Schools are teachers, who have been employed in the graded and city schools during the regular school year and who take advantage of the Summer School to keep abreast of the most up-to-date educational methods. The students are more mature than the ones who attend during the regular year. Unless the families in Richmond, who can spare a room or two during the summer rally to the support of the Normal School, it will be necessary to turn students away from Richmond. Every agency in town should be brought to bear to help take care of the crowd.

EARLY NOTES ON DERBY

(By Associated Press) Louisville, Ky., May 7.—Thousands came here today by train, boat and automobile for the Kentucky Derby, and with the home throng made an appearance of the largest crowd in the history of the Derby.

Clear weather and a fast track put the huge crowd on edge in an endeavor to choose the winner.

Billy Barton was withdrawn during the forenoon. At that time there was no indication of added starters, which left turnmen regarding Gray Leg and Pulanet as doubtful starters, and discussing seriously the chances of the field narrowed down to 12.

Long before the race throngs which began moving toward the track almost swamped newsboys on street corners for the first editions of the papers to learn the opinion of sport writers, who gave the Whitney entries, Prudery and Tryster, the position of favorites, with Star Voter second, and the Simms entry, Leonardo, second, and Bon Homme third.

cigarettes are smoked in vast numbers. The possessors are generous in passing them around. But let a pinch come and they tighten up not only in the number smoked but in their generosity also. When lots of cigarettes are being smoked money reaches the treasury in volume. When the smokers are hard up the revenue bureau knows it.

There are many bitter enemies of the cigarette but it is thus seen to fill a valuable function. When business is on the increase they know it by the zeal with which cigarette users smoke up.

Railroads Make Last Stand

Chicago, May 7.—Railroad representatives made their final drive for a wage slash on behalf of nearly a hundred carriers before the Railroad Labor Board today. They denied charges of mismanagement and waste made by counsel for the employees of the roads. They finally cast the charges aside as irrelevant and stood on their original contention that wages in outside industries and cost of living had declined.

SENATE HOT ON INVITATION TALK

(By Associated Press)

Washington, May 7.—The decision of the administration to accept the invitation of the Allied Supreme Council to send an American representative to the Allied councils got into the senate discussions today.

Senator Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, declared that in sending the invitation the Allies were "merely rubbing it in" on American government for deserting them. Senator New interrupted to read the London dispatch quoting Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, having complimented Ambassador Harvey as an "accomplished gentleman."

Senator Stanley, of Kentucky, inquired whether it could not be said of Aaron Burr that he was "accomplished and cultivated," adding, "If you excuse treason, perfidy and a few other things, Burr was worthy of compliment." Harrison thanked the Kentuckian for "visualizing the correct situation."

MISS YATES IS WINNER

The Periclesian Literary Society of the Normal School won the honors of the year, through its representative, Miss Pauline Yates, of Lebanon, Ky., in the Inter-Society Girls' Reading Contest, which was held in the Normal chapel Friday night. This contest has grown to be one of the largest functions of school year and is participated in by all the societies of the confederation, the winner not only bringing honors to herself and her society, but also becomes the representative of the Normal School in the Eastern-Kentucky Oratorical Contest. This year the contest will be held at London, Ky., Friday, May 13, in which the winner will be chosen from the representatives of the Association Junior Colleges of Eastern Kentucky.

Miss Yates was presented with a gold medal which is awarded by the President of the Normal School. This is second consecutive year in which the Periclesian Society has had the honor of having the winner of the contest as one of its members. Miss Yates in reading "Zingerella," portrayed in a most superb manner the character of the "wild Spanish dancer," depicting all the emotions of jealousy, love, hatred and despair, incorporated in this care-free girl of the Sierras. She is the possessor of a strong, dramatic voice, a charming personality, and interprets the character with the poise and ease of one to whom such an art is a natural talent. The student body feels that in Miss Yates, the contestants in the meeting at London, will find one against whom their efforts will be of little avail. She becomes the representative of the school with the united support of all the societies on the campus, as one who will bring back the honors to the school as she did to her own society.

The decision of the judges gave second place in the contest to Miss Leona Thurman, of Shelbyville, representing the Washingtonian Society, who read "Ole Mistis." The representatives of the other societies were Misses Kathryn Baker, Jackson, of the Carpedian Society, who read that immortal selection the "Swan Song," Blanche Murray, Bengie, Utopian Society, who read "The Gift of the Magi," Christine Sandlin, Richmond, Excelsior Society who read "Pro Patria," Eliza Ransom, Louisa, Columbian Society, who read "Columbia."

R. A. Edwards presided at the contest, which was arranged by Mrs. Deane, chairman of the Confederation of the Literary Societies. The judges were Supt. H. L. Smith, Nicholasville, John Noland, and Supt. John Howard Payne, Richmond. Miss Ellene Reed rendered a beautiful vocal selection, accompanied on the piano by Miss Mildred Long.

The boys' oratorical contest will be held in the chapel tonight the winner representing the Normal school at London Friday, May 13th.

Approved Styles in Coats

THOSE who have postponed the acquisition of a spring coat until now, may congratulate themselves that the styles are crystallized and that therefore it is easy to make a choice. Coat styles have gone from good to better and it will take a captions and hypercritical person to journey far in the displays without growing enthusiastic over the last offerings of the designers. There are several good, distinct styles to choose from, with those showing the influence of the cape, dominating the season.

This feature is given prominence in the handsome coat shown at the left of the two illustrated here. The body of the coat is full and hangs straight with ripple at the bottom, in the manner of a long cape, the sleeves simulate a shorter cape and the embroidery, used for embellishment, follows the lines of a still shorter cape, or deep cape collar. By these means the designer affirms his approval of cape styles in coats and accomplishes a graceful garment. It is of tan-colored wool material in a soft weave and lined with soft taffeta and is a garment that can be worn almost anywhere.

The rich-looking coat at the right is a compromise between the cape and dolman styles that are artfully combined in it. The dolman sleeves are cleverly cut and set in and are covered with a bold pattern in solid embroidery. This embroidery reappears on the long shawl collar which is proving a great success on coats and many other garments this season. Besides the staple colors, as navy, dark brown, gray, these darker coats are shown in other pleasing shades and among them certain soft blues are favored. Shades of beige and taupe are elegant and always a safe choice, harmonizing with everything. The coat pictured is in dark blue lined with plain satin.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Delegates Entertained

Numerous social functions were given this week in honor of the delegates who were in attendance at the Federation of Musical Clubs in session here. On their arrival Thursday they were honored at a luncheon-musical at the home of the State President, Mrs. B. L. Middleton. Mrs. T. D. Chennault, Jr., was hostess to an informal tea at Cumberland View Thursday evening, to which a number of guests were asked to meet the distinguished visitors. Friday noon Mrs. Harvey Chennault, State Secretary, entertained with an elaborate luncheon, the Cecilia Club and officers of the other musical clubs and a number of friends, being included in the invitation. The gayeties were concluded with a most attractive five o'clock tea at the home of Mrs. G. W. Pickels, President of the Dixie District.

The guests departed for their respective homes Saturday morning. The convention was pronounced a brilliant success from every point of view, and Richmond people considered themselves exceedingly fortunate to be honored by such talented, gifted artists whom everyone enjoyed to the fullest.

Moore—Hand.

Never has Edwards seen a more beautiful wedding than that of Miss Theresa Moore, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Moore, to Mr. James Hand, Jr., of Purvis, Miss., on Wednesday evening, April 20. Mr. and Mrs. Hand motored to Vicksburg where they caught the train for New Orleans. After their return they will be at home to their friends at Egremont, where the groom has extensive timber interests, and where he has many friends to welcome the bride back to the home of her childhood. A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Moore came to Edwards, and this lovely cultured family of Kentucky-Mississippians has added much to the social life of the town. Theresa Moore graduated two years ago at the Kentucky College for Women at Danville, and has spent the two years of her radiant young ladyhood here, endearing herself to young and old by her charming personality. —Vicksburg Herald.

Miss Moore has numerous friends in Richmond where she frequently visits Mrs. R. L. Conlee.

Mrs. Gatewood Gay was host to an elaborate luncheon at Green Tree Inn in Lexington, Saturday, in honor of Mrs. Anthony Morse of New York, the house guest of Mrs. Robert Kincaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Simrall and guest, Mrs. Keats Speed, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bradley, are attending the Derby in Louisville. —Lexington Herald.

Dr. R. L. Clark will go to Lexington next week for the meeting of oculists.

Mrs. Waller Hunt, of Lexington, attended the meeting of the Kentucky Wesleyan Club, at Berea the past week.

Mrs. Elmer Tate who has been quite ill with typhoid fever at her home in Irvine, is improving, which will be good news to her many relatives and friends in Richmond.

Mr. J. C. Neff was in Lexington Tuesday.

Miss Sue Chennault is at home from State College, Lexington for a week-end visit.

Mrs. F. H. Gordon spent Friday in Lexington.

Misses Ethlyn and Cornelia Wilson, who are teaching in the graded school at Weeksbury, are guests of their father, Mr. Ben Wilson, in Irvine.

Miss Mary Bradley, of Georgetown, was here this week attending the convocation and delivered an address on "Teachers' Permanency in Tenure."

Judge Grant E. Lilly and Mrs. Lilly were over from Lexington for a visit this week.

Miss Mattie Tribble has returned from a visit to Mrs. Albert Severance in Stanford.

Mrs. Mesdames Joel Park, W. P. Millard, and Harris Noland spent Friday in Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Enright, Mrs. Nelson Elder, Misses Anne and Julia Enright, were in Louisville for the Derby Saturday.

Mrs. Lee Huffman and Mrs. Clay Goodloe, of Lexington, were guests of Mrs. M. C. Kellogg for the Federation.

Miss Elizabeth Curtis is at home from Hamilton College for the week-end.

Dean Tuller, of Georgetown College, was here for the meeting of the Superintendents this week.

Mr. William Wallace has been spending several days in Irvine this week.

Mrs. Meyer Finally Found Relief and Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Orange, Cal.—"I always feel very grateful to you, as some twenty years ago three doctors said I had to have a serious operation. I had a tumor, and ulcers which would gather and break. I had displacement so badly that I could hardly sit down at times, and it seemed as if I suffered every day as I help my husband in the office."

Mrs. J. H. Meyer, 412 South Orange St., Orange, California. It is quite true that such troubles as Mrs. Meyer had may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource. On the other hand, a great many women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

UNION CITY

Union defeated Richmond in a closely played and interesting game at Union Thursday afternoon. The Union boys killed several good chances for Richmond score by snappy double plays. The Richmond boys took the lead in the sixth and scored two more in the ninth after two men were out on an error and two-base hits, but the Union boys came back in the ninth and scored five runs on three bases on ball, a double and Tevis' home run, which broke up the game. Score by innings: Richmond -----011 001 002-5 Union City -----110 000 005-7 Batteries—Mullan and Haguenby; Risk and Moore.

None were out when the winning run was scored.

Richmond had a large crowd of rooters who were loyal to their team. The Union boys played fairly consistent ball for the experience they have had.

We are planning for commencement, which begins on Sunday night, May 15. Dr. E. C. McDongle will preach the annual sermon.

On Tuesday night, May 17, the junior play, "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard" will be played. On Thursday night, May 19, the senior play, "A Cheerful Liar," will be played. Friday night, May 20, Dr. E. E. Wood, president of the Cumberland College, Williamsburg, will deliver the address to the graduates.

TINY FARMERETTE BOOSTS FARM HOME

This is Virginia, in her overalls and blue denim shirt, dressed up like a real farmerette. Virginia has a happy home now, out in the country. But there was a time when she knew what it was to be without a home.

She was taken, a homeless waif, to the Kentucky Children's Home Society in Louisville. There she was given medical care and brought to health, and given the best of care that the attendants at the home could give her until a real home with a family was found for her.

Now Virginia is one of the many little school girls of the state who is going to help build a home for the homeless. When Virginia was in the Children's Home she had to spend most of her time in a little room crowded with other walls. There was no big, sunny playground, and the schoolroom was crowded and poorly lighted and ventilated. There was no proper amount of hospital equipment to care for the younger babies who came in. And the furniture and surroundings were cheerless, while Virginia waited for foster parents to take her away.

Under the plan of the school children of the state, all the children who have homes will be given an opportunity to help build a home for the Kentucky children who have none. It will be a fine, modern institution on a farm near St. Matthews, thoroughly equipped with hospital wards, kindergartens and schoolrooms, and with clean, airy bedrooms and baths.

And, best of all, there will be a big playground on the farm, with lots of fresh air and sunshine; and there will be cows and chickens, and fresh milk, and eggs and vegetables for the kids to use in the new home. That is what the school children of the state will raise in the last week of October. It is a "Children's Crusade," and the grown-up children will be allowed to get in on it and help, too.

We have all helped the French and the Belgian children. Now for the Kentucky children.

AT THE MOVIES

Few scenes in recent pictures have been more thrilling than the one in "Deep Waters" where the hero, a deep-sea diver, is rescuing victims from a wrecked steamer and brings up the half-drowned body of the youth who ran away with the diver's young wife. "Deep Waters" will occupy the screen at the local theatres Tuesday and is a Maurice Tourneur production.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE STARTS 16TH

Brigadier Herbert Roberts, of the Salvation Army, is leaving no stone unturned in working up splendid forces in order to raise the quotas allotted to each county in this section. Madison county's quota has been set for $2,750 and with Col. Elmer Deatherage at the head of the drive, with his enthusiastic workers, they will start the campaign here on Monday, May 16. The following article has been sent out for publication from headquarters:

Brigadier Herbert Roberts, divisional commander of the Salvation Army for western Ohio and Kentucky, who is supervising the work of organizing a financial campaign for the Army in this vicinity, has just been notified that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has given his unqualified endorsement of the campaign. Mr. Gompers wrote Brigadier Roberts as follows:

"Although a score of matters of transcendent importance were before me, I concentrated long enough on the great work of this organization to renew in my mind the many first-hand evidences coming under my observation of the service rendered by them. From doughnuts to the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, their work, both over there during the war and here during time of peace seems to approach the welfare of men here and now rather than deal altogether with the sweet bye and bye.

"This work among those hardened down under the crushing and sickness is just simply service without pretense—just good practical service to mankind. In my judgment, the Salvation Army deserves every encouragement for the service they have rendered and are rendering."

Representatives of the Salvation Army will form community advisory boards to determine the financial needs of each locality and how to raise the money. These boards, composed of leading citizens, will be the judges of community's needs, while the expert Salvationists will at all times volunteer to lend their expert services, which they demonstrated during the world war, in solving each individual social problem. The Salvation Army plans to extend its Home Service program for 1921 from the cities to small towns and the country, in an effort to reach every home in the nation that needs its aid.

MOTHER'S DAY

Let every day be Mother's Day! Make roses grow along her way! And heavily everywhere, Oh, never let her eyes be wet With tears of sorrow or regret, And never cease to care! Come, grown-up children, and rejoice! That you can hear your mother's voice!

A day for her! For you she gave long years of love and service brave, For you her youth was spent; There was no weight of hurt or care Too heavy for her strength to bear, She followed where you went; Her courage and her love sublime You could depend on all the time.

No day or night she set apart On which to open wide her heart And welcome you within; There was no hour you could not be First in her thought and memory, Though you were black as sin! The skies were gray or skies were blue Not once has she forgotten you.

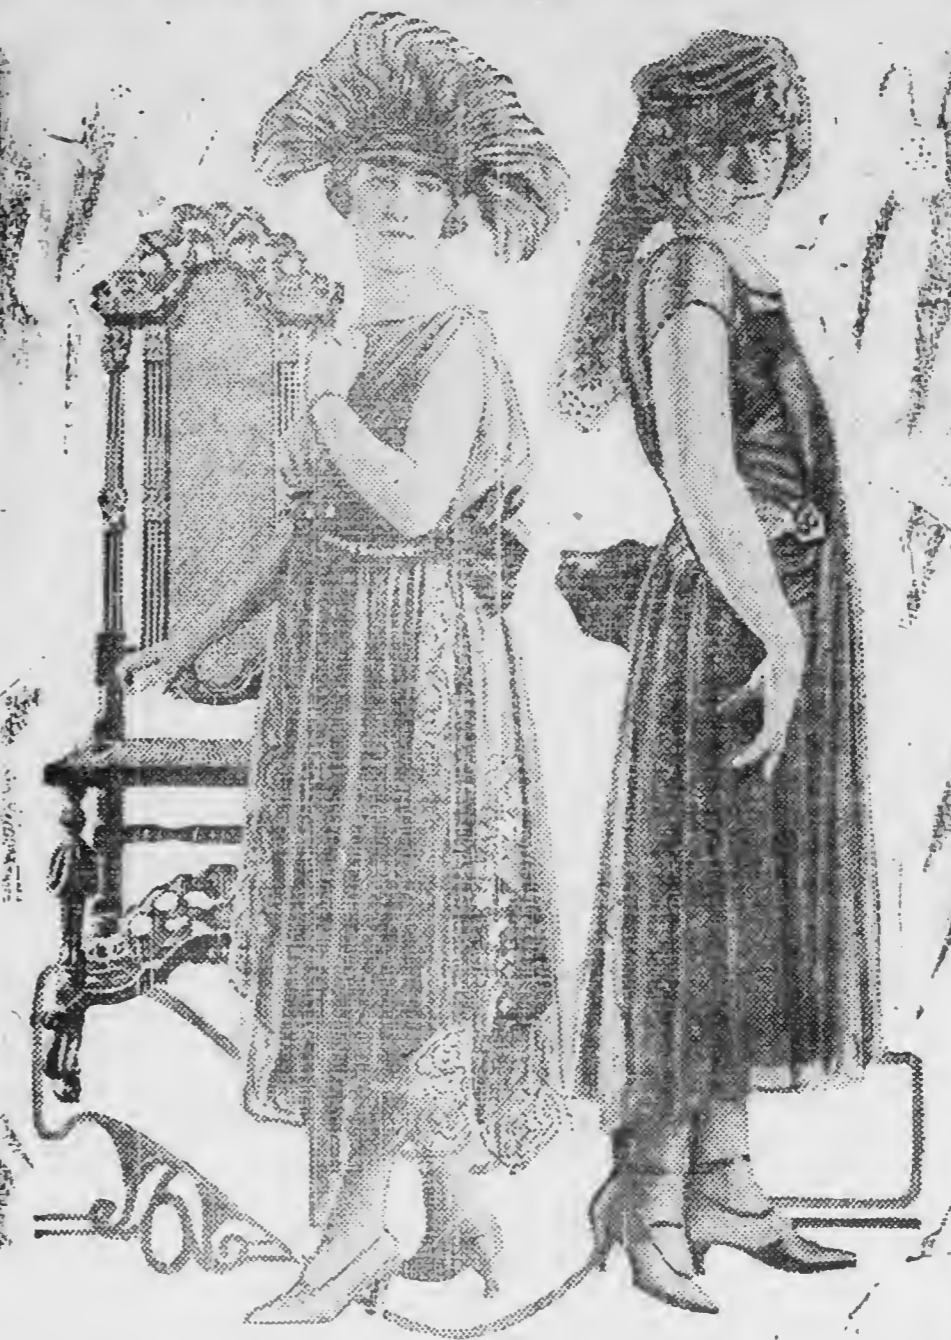

Let every day be Mother's Day! With love and roses strewn her way, And smiles of joy and pride! Come, grown-up children, to the knee Where long ago you used to be And never turn aside; Or never let her eyes grow wet With tears, because her babes forget.

HISLE TELLS OF BEE INDUSTRY

Mr. Sam Hisle, of the Big Hill pike, this county, reported to a representative of the Daily Register some interesting news concerning the bee industry. Mr. Hisle has for the past few years had experience with bees, and according to the information given, the bees are "dying off" by the thousands, owing to the extreme open winter, and the lack of nourishment to be found in this county and other parts of the southern states. The locust trees have failed to give forth its bloom from which the bees in this section depend largely for its maintenance. Then the scarcity of other wild flowers which were frosted out, have starved the little creatures out almost entirely.

Mr. Hisle has been doing a little bit of experimenting and finds that a syrup made from brown sugar and fed to the bees through the cap of the gum solves the situation wonderfully. He warns bee men not to pour the syrup out in the open, as he finds that the bees fight over the syrup and many are killed in the fray.

For the Magnificent Hour

MANY materials are called upon to make the gay or gorgeous gowns in which women emerge from the restraint of a daylight world into another that invites them to indulge their love of splendor. They have often been likened to gay butterflies, and never more appropriately than now. Fabrics and colors are like these winged jewels.

Gowns of lace, over silk or satin, in colors or in white or black, continue to appeal to the greatest number of people. The metallic laces, and laces dyed to match the lovely silks with which they are combined, justify their reappearance by the beauty of the gowns they make.

Two handsome models for the dinner dance or other occasions are shown in the picture, made over satin underlaid. The dress at the left is an lace over brown satin, also of finding favor in either black or cream color. The underskirt and overdrape of lace are both pointed at the bottom. The bodice is simply draped and sleeveless and a very handsome sash with embroidered ends and girdle is featured with bouffant bows and long ends. The overskirt at its longest reaches the instep.

In the dress at the right, lace over satin with beads finishing the edges of the bodice and short sleeves, preserves a long line, but accomplishes a ripple in the lace overskirt. A metallic ribbon set in across the sides and back makes a clever management of the waist line without defining it. It is finished at each side with a rosette and veiled with tulle, which finishes its brief but interesting career in short bouffant loops at the right side toward the back.

HOT, DIZZY, FEELING

Atlanta Lady's Uncomfortable and Annoying Condition Relieved, She Says, by Cardui.

Atlanta, Ga.—Miss Alice Frances Young, of 28 East Alexander Street, this city, says: "After entering womanhood, I suffered so much with womanly weakness. My back ached. I would have, at certain times, a hot feeling that seemed to go to my head. Even my shoulders would hurt, and it made me very dizzy and uncomfortable. When the blood would flow to my head—I suppose that was what was—I would faint and feel so weak I couldn't do my work. I had a good position, and this was surely annoying as well as embarrassing. I would usually have to go home and go to bed. I certainly suffered greatly. I heard of Cardui, and my mother bought it for me. It was the first and only medicine that ever did me any good for this trouble."

Dizziness, headache, sideache, backache, tired-out feeling and other disagreeable symptoms are often signs of womanly troubles. Thousands of women who formerly suffered from these and similar ailments have found Cardui a very valuable remedy. Cardui is composed of pure, vegetable ingredients which have long been recognized as of medicinal value in the treatment of many diseases and disorders peculiar to women.

DICK MILLER'S BEAUTIFUL ADDRESS

ruins—one touch of nature makes the whole world kin, and the noblest and best exhibition of our oneness are given to the world. There is no North, nor South nor East nor West, but one flag, one country and one destiny.

All Is Peace

Peace and plenty smile upon a happy, a contented, and a prosperous people. Science has harnessed nature to the service of humanity; art has been led captive to human comfort; material blessings have been showered about us; thought receives its recompense and labor has its honest wage; intelligence is multiplied; education is universal; and thus with peace prevalent, the law supreme and liberty regnant, in the conscious courage of a deathless hope, we journey to a future beyond the reach of vision, saying to one another, as Godly and as truly as it was said more than three thousand years ago, in that far off meadow by the margin of a mystic sea, "Whither thou goest, I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge, thy people shall be my people, and thy God shall be my God."

people, and thy God shall be my God."

Whilst all of this is true, in some strange way, the Kentuckian has always preserved his individuality, has never lost his identity, and we love to look upon him as a Saul among his brethren, so marked by physical, racial and temperamental characteristics that you may mark him among a thousand. There must be reason for it, and I think that in his history we will find the causes that differentiate him from the most of men.

Why He Is Great

Roll back the curtain which separates the things that are from the things that have been, and a great procession goes trooping by—a procession whose visions move the heart and stir the soul, and stimulate to high endeavor. From older settlements, across the hills a dauntless company starts out and strikes into a trackless wilderness, to fix anew, within an unknown land, the outposts of civilization. It winds its way through the Gap—along what afterward became the old Wilderness Road, until entranced by beauty more than human, it bivouacked by the Hudson of the West, and lighted the first camp fires in the Dark and Bloody Ground, and reared the old stockade at Boonesboro. There brave and heroic men and still brave, and more heroic women claimed a wilderness for civilization and won, through sacrifice and suffering, in blood and agony and travail, a sylvan paradise for peace. The company from beyond the Alleghenies grew, and with dauntless courage and consistent effort, in places, long since overgrown and near forgotten, they laid broad and deep the foundations of a free and independent state.

In all of the glorious annals of our dominant and dauntless race there is no more inspiring page. It was a new experiment. It was the first settlement in human history which left the touch of older settlements and hurled itself across the mountains, 300 miles from the next outpost of civilization. It was a conspicuous success. It produced a society and developed a civilization as unique as they are winsome and attractive. In the hardships, toil and dangers, in the sympathy the succor and success, in the splendid isolation of earlier days which only men with iron in their blood were fitted to endure, we find the reason for that strong, strange love of home and home life; that sturdy, stalwart, almost reckless independence; the self-reliance, the poise, the splendid courage, the conscious power, the love of right, the hate of wrong, that marks the Kentuckian everywhere, and makes him leader of his kind.

This was the man who made up that intrepid band, which caught the fire of Clark's magnetic genius and went through snow and ice, through hardships beyond speech and difficulties that immortalized endurance, to add the Northwestern Empire to the Republic. It was men grown out of such stock, who, with prescient statesmanship, "dipped into the future far as human eye could see, caught the wonders of the world and the glories yet to be," read the unborn future and blazed the way to the free navigation of the Mississippi and the inevitable acquisition of the Louisiana territory. Their rifles won the battle of New Orleans, and their rich red blood, freely shed, was the precious incense through whose smoke Texas was added to the stars. In the great conflict of '61, divided between allegiance and love, some went to each army, and wherever they marched or fought or died, they bore themselves as men. And when the shock of strife was over, the Commonwealth they loved was the first of all states to blot out from her statute books every law born of the hate of war, and opened wide her arms and bade her children come home again, and soothe their wounds and rest their bruised heads upon the loving bosom of a mother who loved them both alike.

Close To Nature

This is the history, lingering like an inspiration; this the environment of which the Kentuckian has wrought his destiny a home. The currents of the larger world have often passed him by. Immigration has made small impress on either his character or stock. Living close to nature, stimulated by the soil's strong touch, building home and loving it, not given to large accumulation, drinking the sweetness of the simple life, he has preserved it once his independence and his high ideals. Proud of his Commonwealth, jealous of his honor, quick of temper, but quicker to forgive; free from envy, malice, hate, strangely free from polluting the touch of that sordid commercialism which, in the avrice of graceless greed, multiplies riches in the sweat of unremunerated labor and gathers wealth through the sufferings of unrequited toil, loving justice, doing equity, building on the conservatism of an established law, he has kept the faith as it came down from the father.

Today, well across the threshold of a century for the sweep of whose enlarging visions the past affords no measure, this Commonwealth founded in faith and builded in courage, faces a radiant morning, big with promise, bright with hope. It is a very precious privilege to be called to the kingdom for such a time—to be privileged to participate in the great movements that make for a broader and nobler material development, a more abundant abiding destiny, a richer impulse and a deeper patriotic purpose, for loftier standards of public and private life, for sterner tests of personal and corporate honesty, for civic righteousness and truth and justice regnant and supreme.

Kentucky's Privilege

And here today, in the hallowed associations of these happy scenes, recalling radiant days that were and glorious days ahead, as we gather from the corners of the earth in loving communion in a place that will always be to all of us a common home, the Kentuckian at home gives you this pledge, that burying all the bitterness and rancor of the other older days—if bitterness and rancor there have been—forgetting all that has been unjust, forgiving all that has been unkind—if any such has been—not in anger nor in strife, not in discord or confusion, freed of faction and purged of selfish purpose, in a spirit of high devotion, with deep convictions and unfaltering faith, looking always up and never down, constructing, not destroying, in love and fellowship and fraternity, we lay the honest and unselfish service of loyal and devoted hearts and lives on the common altar of our common faith, as we set the new Kentucky forward on her endless journey along a luminous high-

Heads State Drive To Feed Chinese

THE REV. DR. E. Y. MULLINS

DR. MULLINS is chairman in Kentucky for the China Famine Fund. This campaign which was launched by President Wilson, is to raise money to feed the 40,000,000 Chinese now facing death from starvation.

FATHER POISONS HIS STARVING CHILDREN

Kentuckian Receives Letter From China Telling of the Horrible Famine Conditions There

40,000,000 FACE DEATH

So dreadful are the famine conditions in China, a father poisoned his family to save them from the suffering of starvation. The 40,000,000 people who face starvation now are beginning to die from the dreaded typhus.

These conditions are described in a letter to the Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville, chairman for Kentucky of the China Famine Fund, and also are told of in the report of the American Minister at Peking sent to President Wilson. The campaign to save these people from starvation was launched by the President.

10,000,000 Are Children.

The American Minister states that of this number, 15,000,000 are subsisting on dry leaves and 10,000,000 of them are children.

Dr. Mullins says this famine is the greatest since the one in 1870 when the world stood aghast at the death of millions by starvation and cold. The horrors of that year are at our very doors," he said.

The area involved is larger than France and embraces Shantung, Shan-ai, Chihli and Honan.

A missionary in a letter received yesterday by Dr. Mullins, says:

"This dreadful famine follows five years of crop failures. Millions of men, women and children are eating the last of their dry leaves. The winters here are very cold but these people have no fuel—they depend on leaves and cooling stalks to heat their huts—they have neither.

Typhus Upon Them.

"This appeal is not ours but theirs. I passed from Tchow to Tientsin, there was only barrenness, wheat had been sown in some few spots, but it is a long wait until harvest time and now typhus is upon us.

"I found one very pathetic case. The cow that had kept the family alive for months, failed to give milk for lack of feed. She had to be sold for a trifle. The father prepared a good meal of 'Beodsi,' dumplings for his family. His little daughter asked how it was that they were having such good food after weeks of hunger. After they had eaten, he told them that he had put poison in each dumpling and all would soon be out of their misery. He could not bear to see them starve and they were dead when I arrived.

"Please send money for these poor human beings. The railroad into Manchuria will haul wheat free of charge but we haven't enough money to buy the wheat."

Dr. Mullins has sent an appeal to the clergy of Kentucky to relate the experiences of this missionary. Joseph Burge, treasurer of the Famine Fund, sends the funds to China through the State Department at Washington.

MALLORY SPRINGS SCHOOL

The people are greatly interested in farming and have been attending club meetings.

Miss Lucy Hayes organized a junior agricultural club which has ten members and more are asking to join. Miss Hayes was elected local leader of the club; Reo Adams, president; Price Stephens, vice president, and Laura Hurley, secretary. The club had two meetings in April. They have been testing soil. Reo Adams made a box at one meeting and the club secured some eggs from a neighbor and tested them; also the fresh eggs and some which had been setting for seven days. The club soon learned the soil that needed lime and which were the fertile eggs.

Miss Lucy Hayes has purchased two dozen new song books and a pencil sharpener from the proceeds of a pie supper for her school.

ALL HIGHLY PLEASED WITH MUSIC MEET

Federation Invited to Meet With MacDowell Club, Lexington,
For 1921 Session

The Friday afternoon program of the State Federation was opened with prayer by Dr. O. Olin Green, followed by the singing of "Sing Sing," the National Federation song.

Dr. S. S. Myers, director of music of the Eastern Kentucky Normal, gave a most practical and instructive address on the "Cultural and Educational Value of Music." Dr. Myers said, "Music is the method of self-expression. What cannot be said in words can be expressed in music. The cultivation of music leads to the development of the finest emotions and intuitions of the soul. The reason people do not appreciate music is because of the lack of proper education. Formerly the three R's were the standard of education. Music was thought to be impractical and unnecessary. But the standard of today should be the three H's—head, heart and hand—all of which respond in a marvelous way to the divine art of music. As a proof that we are making progress, Dr. Myers gave figures showing that in 1914 twenty-five million dollars more was spent for instruction in music than in all other educational training.

A resolution presented by Dr. Myers was unanimously adopted, requesting that a petition be sent to Hon. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, asking him to use his influence during the next session of the state legislature to secure such legislation as will require the teaching of music in all public schools of the state.

Telegram was ordered sent to Governor Morrow thanking him for his interest and co-operation with the Kentucky Home Commission in purchasing Federal Hill.

The music numbers were given by Miss Robbie James, Miss Elmer Katherine Douglas, Miss Lynn Evans and Mr. Webster Taylor, all of whom have been winners in the music contests conducted by the local Federation. Miss Mattie Jo Deatherage, Miss Cynthia Davison and Miss Elizabeth Higgins, of Stanford, also contributed numbers.

Miss Cynthia Davison, director of public school music in Richmond, told of some of her methods in teaching music in the grades of the city schools. As a practical demonstration of her work five little girls sang two motion songs which were very pleasing to the audience.

Miss Sarah McGarvey, of MacDowell Club of Lexington, chairman of the committee on resolutions, gave the following report: "We, the delegates of the music convention, wish to extend to the First Christian church our hearty appreciation for the use of the Bible School auditorium and to Mrs. B. L. Middleton for the use of her Steinway grand piano and to Mr. Middleton and Mr. Harvey Chenault for their many courtesies and valuable assistance in the work of the convention.

To the artists on Thursday evening who gave so generously to the entertainment of the audience, the joy of which shall remain a delightful memory.

That we recognize in our schools of music and conservatories a potent factor in the musical progress of our state and give them our loyal support.

That we pledge to the Kentucky Home Commission our sympathetic interest and support in its effort to honor memory of Stephen Collins Foster.

To Miss Anna Chandler Goff our deep appreciation of the splendid enterprise set forth in her artist concert series.

To Mrs. Kellogg for her ever-acceptable contribution at the piano.

To Mrs. Robert Burnam and her committee for the tasteful decorations of the convention auditorium.

To Mrs. Pickels and Mrs. Middleton and Mrs. Harvey Chenault for their devoted and untiring efforts which made the convention so eminently successful. And we wish also to express appreciation of the work of Mrs. Seiberling, our gifted and ambitious national president.

To Mr. Sausley of the Daily Register for the generous space allotted to the proceedings of the Federation.

To the ministers of the various churches, to Mayor Evans, to our delightful hosts and to all of Richmond's citizens for thoughtful and helpful attentions.

NORMAL BEATS L. M. I.

The base ball team of the Eastern Normal continued its winning streak by defeating Lincoln Memorial Institute of Harrogate, Tenn., at that place Friday. A message was received this morning from Coach George Hembree stating that Ballou was in fine form and won easily by a score of 8 to 4. It is unfortunate that the college teams in this neighborhood will not schedule games with the local institution. The victory over the L. M. I. is first Eastern has ever been able to score. They play again today with Lackey in the box for the local lads.

Milburn LIGHT ELECTRIC

THE Milburn Light Electric belongs just as much to the man who smokes a pipe and likes his dog and gun as to the woman who wants a smart easy-to-drive car.

He appreciates the way this car gets him over the ground, while he rests as he drives.

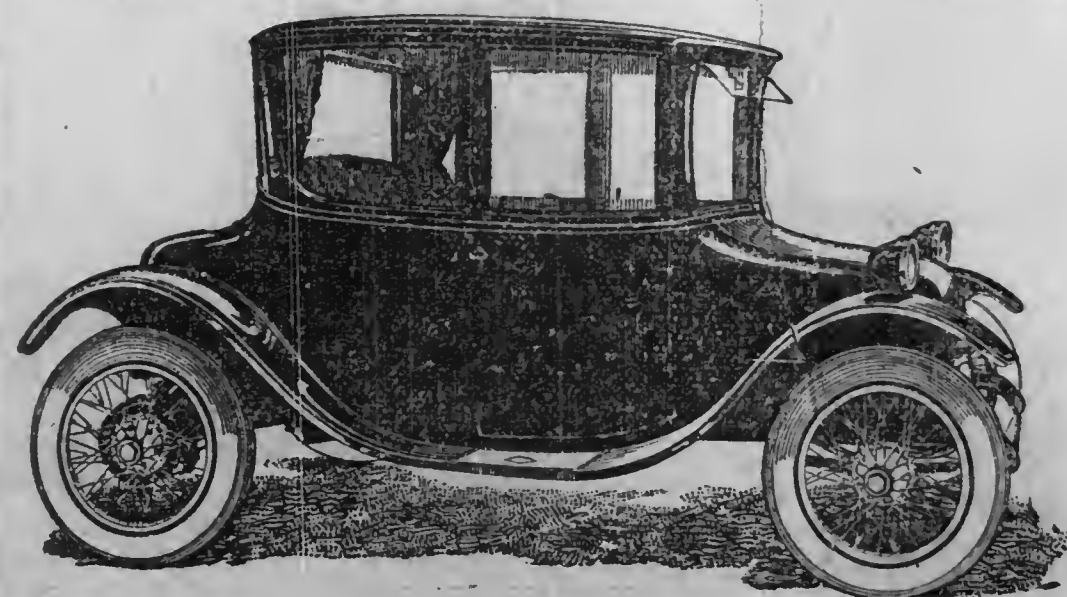

She likes the feeling of proprietorship as she grasps the starting lever and knows the car will instantly respond.

There is no car quite like the Milburn to win you by its appearance and then hold you by its performance.
